Who's Who at Link?

I have been asked several times in the last few weeks what Link stands for. Actually it is not an acronym like T.R.A.I.L.S (Traveling Resource and Information Library System). It is the name that differentiates us from the other Resource and Referral agencies around the state, like Choices and Connect, which are also programs of RVCDS which provide the same services as Link in other areas. Link offers three basic types of services: Training, Provider and Family Services.

Training Services provides training and technical assistance to providers. It consists of the Training Team: Behavior Consultant, Shannon Taylor; Early Childhood Specialist, Kathy Meadows; Infant Toddler Specialist, Sue Knisely;

T.R.A.I.L.S. Staff, Paula Stewart and Virena Elkins; and the Supervisor of the Training Team is Nikki Rabel.

Provider Services is responsible for processing payments for providers and provider recruitment. Provider Services consist of our Data Entry staff, Shelia Myers and Leigh Ann Cazad. Leigh Ann is also the Equipment Coordinator and maintains our web page (www.wvdhhr.org/Link).

The Supervisor of Provider Services is Suzanne Wright.

Family Services offer support and determines eligibility of subsidy for families. As well as maintains the Referral System. The Child Care Associates at Link are Chrissy Conway, Matthew James, our newest CCA, Sheila Jenning, Jeremi Leep, Lela Pemberton, Sharon Varney, Diana Vincent and Amy Foster, who is also the Referral Counselor. The Supervisor of Family Services is Christie Dunbar. In addition to our weekly out-reach sites in Boone, Mason, Mingo, Lincoln, Putnam and Wayne Counties, we have an Satellite office in Logan. This office is located at 201 Stratton St., Suite 214 (phone 752-3932) in Logan. The staff consists of Harold Keener and Vanessa Casey.

Last but not least, we have our Receptionist Charla Clark and Director, Mary Bridgette.

We all work together to provide the highest quality services possible for children and families. If we can be of service to you, stop by our Logan or Main office (611 7th Ave., Suite 200 in Huntington) or give us a call at 523-9540 or 1-800-894-9540.

Behavior Specialist Corner, by Shannon Taylor

It's no secret to those who have worked with me that I have a couple of pet peeves. The most pressing of these is the provider who insists on using "no" or "don't" statements when trying to reshape a child's behavior. The problem is that adults say "no" so often that it starts to lose its meaning. To make matters worse, toddlers seem to hear only the last word spoken, so what he hears is "run," "bite," "touch!"

The other problem is that even if the child actually wants to cooperate, chances are he's not sure what you want him to do. He's much too young to have those deductive reasoning skills that adults come to rely on that could help him work it out. He's sitting there thinking, "Ok, so if I shouldn't run, what SHOULD I do?" If you fail to provide him with an alternative (walking, for instance) he's more likely to do what he really wants to do, which is run. It may sound contradictory at first, but the best way to make a child understand "no" is to turn it into a "yes."

"The best way to make a child understand "no" is to turn it into a "yes."

You will make your life AND his simpler if you just tell him what you WANT him to do, rather than what you DON'T want him to do. For example, you are at a local park and your child wants to break into a mad dash on the concrete sidewalk. Get down on his level, look him in the eye, point to the sidewalk and let him touch it with his hands. "This is rough and hard. If I run on this, I might fall and get hurt. I need to walk." (Always use "I" statements with toddlers...when the child is engaging in self-talk or make-believe later, he will use your same words and the message will sink in quicker. Using "you" statements may lead him to believe that the rules apply to everyone BUT him). Then take his hand and walk with him on the sidewalk. Every time he starts to run on the sidewalk, repeat the lesson quickly and clearly, and then move on. Walk with him to the grass or softer mulch area. "This is soft, I can run on this." Again, allow him to touch the softer area with his hands so that he can feel the difference. The trick is to pay attention to the times you find yourself saying "no," and start with reshaping your own behavior by turning "don't" statements into "do" statements. Once you have mastered this feat, you can move on to the original task at hand...getting the child to display a more appropriate behavior in the learning environment. Good luck!

Shannon Taylor is the Behavior Consultant at Link. You can reach Shannon for a phone consultation or to schedule a site-visit at 523-9540 or 1-800-894-9540.

ACDS classes are starting again for the fall. If you missed the chance to start class this fall, please contact me now and I can get your name on the list for Jan. or next fall classes.

Why should you take ACDS? It is a low cost opportunity to learn how to provide the best possible care for children ages birth through 8. The information taught in ACDS is the most current information based on research. It is taught by professionals with experience in the field. It is offered in the evening so it does not interfere with your work schedule. You can earn college credit that can be used to obtain an associates degree at community all over the state. Graduates of ACDS are eligible for scholarships. There is a new way to register new apprentices with Department of Labor for ACDS classes throughout the state.

The electronic registration system will help ensure that the process of registration is completed much quicker. Please contact Suzi Brodof at 1-866-WVA- ACDS ext. 406 for the name and number of your local Dept. of Labor representative so you can learn how to use this new electronic registration system.

In order to foster quality care to babies, the Resources for Infant Educators (RIE),TM that was founded by Magda Gerber encourages:

Basic trust in the child to be an initiator, and explorer, and a self learner.

An environment for the child that is physically safe, cognitively challenging and emotionally nurturing.

Time for uninterrupted play.

Freedom to explore and interact with other infants.

Involvement of the child in all care activities to allow the child to become and active participant rather than a passive recipient.

Sensitive observation of the child in order to understand his/her needs.

Consistency, clearly defined limits and expectations to develop discipline.

This approach to care giving is based on RESPECT, helps raise infants who are competent, confident, curious, attentive, exploring, cooperative, secure, peaceful, focused, self-initiating, resourceful, involved, cheerful, aware, interested, and inner-directed.

AN APPLE A DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY!

A saying based in fact. Apples have acids that are beneficial to liver function and aide in digestion of other foods. Their juices clean teeth and hardness cleans deposits around gums. They contain 3.7 grams of fiber, potassium, folic acid and Vitamin C. They have no fat, saturated fat, sodium, cholesterol or artificial colors or flavors.

Apples are part of the rose family and in colonial times they were called winter banana or melt in the mouths. Apples are plentiful now in stores, farmers markets and maybe our backyards. Best refrigerated because they will become mushy in 2 or 3 days.

RECIPE - APPLE SANDWICH

Thinly slice (unpeeled) apple onto a slice of bread that is spread with butter or peanut butter.

This makes a great snack or quick meal and counts as a serving for our 5 a day.

Don't Miss Your Chance to WIN a DREAM CLASSROOM

The Huntington Area Early Childhood Council is giving away another "Dream Classroom." This year Family Child Care Provider and Facilities will have a chance to participate. Do you have a room that the children use that needs a little sprucing up? Are you located within 100 miles of the Huntington Area Early Childhood Council office? Are you a licensed child care provider? Have you been a continuous provider for the last five years? If you meet this criteria, and want a chance to win this "Dream Classroom" fill out an application and attach a brief letter of explanation, 500 words or less, describing why you think your home should be selected for the "Dream Classroom" and how this would benefit the children. The committee also needs a video, DVD, or pictures of your room. Please do not mention your name so that our judges can make sure every home has a fair opportunity. Videos, DVDs, pictures and essays that fail to follow this request will be disqualified. An independent selection committee will choose the winner. You must agree to hang a plaque in the room with the names of the sponsors and contributors. You must also agree to stay in business for at least two years after you receive the award. If you close before that time, you must return everything to the Huntington Area Early Childhood Council. If you want an application, please call 523-9540 or 1-800-894-9540 and ask for Kathy Meadows and she will mail you an application. Her extension is 112. All entries must be postmarked by November 13, 2007. Late entries will not be considered.
